

be published in dialogue

Call for submissions on our next theme:

New literacies

To prepare students for the future, schools and especially teachers must teach students many new literacies and life skills.

- Critical thinking
- Flexibility and adaptability
- Communication
- Creativity and innovation
- Self-directed learning
- Financial and economic
- Problem-solving
- Civic and health
- Global awareness
- Teamwork and collaboration
- Media and technology
- Social and cross-cultural
- Accountability
- Leadership and responsibility

Pedagogy

How will teaching these new literacies change the role of teachers inside and outside of the classroom? What role will traditional teaching methods play? How can educators best learn these literacies that they will teach to their students?

Administration

How will schools support teachers who need teach these new literacies? Are there new marketing opportunities for schools that are specialists in teaching new literacy? How do schools inform parents about the new skills being taught?

Additional ways to contribute

Become a featured blogger and engage in social learnings.

Submit an article, lesson plan or presentation for the newsletter.

Communicate a useful website, news feed, tool or book. You may also submit book reviews.

Suggest a future theme you want to learn about.

Do you have an article idea about new literacies?

We are accepting proposals for the 2011 edition of Dialogue until May 10, 2010.